

Lloyd's Register's PSPC initiative completes one-hundredth gap analysis

A certificate is presented to STX France Cruise, Saint-Nazaire by Lloyd's Register, commemorating the one hundredth gap analysis

Just two years after completing the first PSPC gap analysis in a Chinese shipyard, Lloyd's Register and a paint manufacturer are proud to announce the completion of the one hundredth analysis at STX France Cruise, Saint-Nazaire.

Conducted over a two-day period by personnel from Lloyd's Register, the paint company and STX France Cruise, Saint-Nazaire, the PSPC gap analysis assesses current shipyard coating practices against PSPC requirements. Lloyd's Register and the paint company then jointly deliver a presentation to shipyard senior management and departmental managers. The presentation to all functions is a key aspect of the analysis and is specifically designed to help the shipyard understand that to meet the requirements of the PSPC and maximise shipbuilding efficiency all departments, for example, design, procurement, quality, steelwork, outfitting and production, need to be involved not just the paint department.

For further information contact:
Lloyd's Register, UK. Web: www.lr.org